Context

Kingston Community School has developed on 10 hectares of land in parkland setting at Gall Park since 1985. The school, although geographically isolated, is a modern complex, with excellent facilities. Included in the building complex are a well-resourced community library, full-sized gymnasium & four squash courts. The school values of personal best, respect, honesty, friendliness and responsibility are reflected throughout the curriculum. Students have access to a range of core subjects from Reception to 12, including Music and German. Programs are tailored to suit individual needs and include a broad range of subject choices including university pathways, vocational education and training options, and school-based apprenticeships or traineeships. Pre-Service teachers and work experience students must present their screening to the site before any work commences.

DUTY OF CARE – VOLUNTEERS

The Principal and supervising teachers have a responsibility to support value and protect volunteers. At the same time they have a very important duty of care to all of the students in their charge. This duty of care cannot be delegated to volunteers.

Given the diversity of roles volunteers play at Kingston Community School, the approach to selection and induction of volunteers, and the required supervision that is required may vary slightly. However, where volunteers work directly with students, the school will ensure that all groups of people are protected.

Volunteers must not accept personal responsibility for any portion of the formal learning program or the school curriculum.

The supervising teacher assumes personal oversight and ultimate responsibility of students and the learning programme.

Volunteers may be left to work with a student for a short period of time but responsibility for the students' health, safety and welfare rests with the supervising teacher, who organizes your programme.

Volunteers will be made aware of the everyday risks associated with volunteering activities

It is the responsibility of the supervising teacher to brief volunteers of any possible risks involved with volunteering activities and provide volunteers with information to ensure volunteers appreciate the educational/recreational/social values of the activities planned.

CODE OF CONDUCT – VOLUNTEERS

GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

All disputes should be solved through discussion with concerned parties. It is advisable that all disputes are dealt with in a timely fashion.

Privacy and confidentiality of individuals will be respected.

A grievance is defined as any rule or practice where the volunteer believes they have been treated unfairly, or where they have experienced a degree of unpleasantness or unhappiness on the job. A grievance may also deal with an attitude, a statement, or an opinion held by a staff member, student, volunteer, or parent.

The Grievance Procedure is as follows:

Talk to a person who can assist you to work through the matter in a confidential way, or seek advice from a trusted friend or colleague, or speak to the person concerned directly.

Such people include:

- The supervising teacher
- The student counsellor
- The volunteer

Wherever possible let the person know about the nature of your concern or query prior to a meeting. This means that both of you will be prepared and have all the necessary information to resolve the issue in an amicable way.

If together, or with a mediator or advocate, you are unable to resolve the problem, arrange a time to meet with the Principal.

The Principal has the right to involve outside personnel if necessary.

If the dispute is of a serious nature the supervising teacher or volunteer should put it in writing. In these cases the school will maintain records of the dates and nature of any issues raised and the actions taken.

Having followed the set guidelines with resolution not being achieved, the Principal and supervising teacher have the right to terminate a volunteer's work at the site to ensure the safety of students, and a conducive working atmosphere for all.

Kingston Community School intends to provide a volunteer environment that is pleasant, healthy, comfortable and supportive.

Kingston Community School will not tolerate harassment of any kind that is directed towards staff, students or volunteers. Harassment can take many forms. It may be, but is not limited to: words, comments, jokes, pranks, intimidation, physical contact, or violence.
